

Harvey Aluminum Wins Appeal

U. S. Court Upholds Dismissal Action

SAN FRANCISCO — The United States Court of Appeal here for the Ninth Judicial Circuit has reversed the National Labor Relations Board and upheld the right of Harvey Aluminum, Torrance, to dismiss a supervisor.

The appeal court ruled that the National Labor Relations Board's findings as to the reasons for the discharge, or its effect, were not supported by "substantial evidence."

The opinion noted the board's admission that an employer complete loyalty of supervisors, and may discharge those engaged in union activities.

Matters involving two employees were sent back to the board for further review, one of which, Harvey Aluminum said, already has been resolved with the board.

Harvey Aluminum noted that the unions have lost all elections by overwhelming majorities in all of its plants.

A spokesman for the firm stated that "the company has always had good relations with its employees. It is hoped that non-local special interest groups will cease interfering, agitating, irritating, and conducting irresponsible actions tending to create schisms between labor and management when every intelligent person wants labor peace."

The company quoted one man, employed at the Torrance plant since it started, as saying, "why don't the outsiders leave us alone?"

The appeal court directed the National Labor Relations Board to modify its order.

In its judgement, the court noted: "It is unquestioned that this (new) election was properly held under circumstances which permitted the employees to freely choose their bargaining representative without restraint, coercion, threatened reprisals, or interference by petitioners."

Counsel for Harvey Aluminum indicated that the court's opinion set up certain ground rules and "should pave a new road of cooperation between Harvey Aluminum and the National Labor Relations Board."

"It is hoped that this spirit of cooperation would not be hampered in the future by any antagonistic action on the part of individual regional staff board members," the company counsel said.

Torrance YMCA Expands Staff; Egelund and Mathieson to Aid Wilcox

Two new members have been added this week to the professional staff of the Torrance YMCA, 2080 Washington, Joe Wilcox, executive secretary, announced yesterday.

They are Don Mathieson, who comes to Torrance direct from service in the Army at Fort Ord, and Paul Egelund, of 1712 W. 240th St., who has served on the board of managers of the Torrance YMCA for three years.

"I'm delighted to have these men here because their presence will enable us to do our job in greater depth," said Wilcox, "and to better serve 154 youth clubs with more than 6,000 members."

Mathieson was educated for a YMCA career at Whittier College, which offers courses for YMCA professionals.

After graduation, Mathieson first worked at the Whittier YMCA and then entered the Army.

"I'm real excited about the possibility of serving the Torrance YMCA, and the community of Torrance," said Mathieson.

Egelund is well acquainted in Torrance, for he has been active in Torrance youth groups for the past four years. He will be building manager and director of the activities which take place inside the YMCA building.

"My main concern," said Egelund, is the need for developing a closer relationship between the people of Torrance and especially closer to the young people of the city.
